On Wednesday, Jan. 9, the Case of the Month Program will feature Thomas R. Kline and Ann M. Liacouras, successful trial counsel in the case of Reis v. A.H. Robbins Co. The Reif case was tried in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania before Chief U.S. District Judge Alfred L. Luongo. The jury awarded $4,585,600 in compensatory damages to Janet Reif and $573,400.00 to George Reif for loss of consortium.

The jury found that a Dalkon Shield intrauterine contraceptive device worn by the plaintiff from August of 1970 to May of 1974 was defective due to improper design and lack of adequate warning. The jury also found that the company was negligent in failing to test the defective tails string attached to the Dalkon Shield.

The presentation by Kline and Liacouras will begin at 3 P.M. in the Penthouse Suite of the Mellon Bank Center, 15th and South Penn Square, Philadelphia, Pa. Commencing at 2 p.m., a taped closing address to the jury will be presented in the case of Paul v. General Motors, a product auto liability case that produced a $6,500,000 verdict.
